

Communion - made up of brothers Martin and Mads Rehof and high school friends Jacob van Deurs Formann and Frederik Lind Köppen - began in 2014, releasing their debut EP Cobblestones on Posh Isolation, which was followed by a 7-inch and EP on Tough Love Records. These releases, as well as the forthcoming 7-inch, precede the band's anticipated debut album and showcase Communion's distinctive sound full of transcendent melodies, delicate guitar lines and emotive pop-leaning rock songs.

The quartet came together at Mayhem, a storied local rehearsal space where most of Copenhagen's new punk, industrial and synth scene originates and where Denmark contemporaries Iceage also rehearse. However, the comparison between these Danish peers end there - whereas Iceage take their cues from hardcore, Communion do so from the type of British post punk and indie pop typified by Creation Records. The band has a sound all their own, earning themselves the title of "Copenhagen's cheeriest band" by The FADER.

Communion are: Martin Rehof (vocal and guitar), Mads Rehof (bass), Jacob van Deurs Formann (guitar) and Frederik Lind Köppen (drums). Their debut album is in the works and is expected to be released in 2017
